

Professor Dr. Gerald Rimbach

Curriculum Vitae

- Since 2003: Full Professor and Director, Institute of Human Nutrition and Food Science, Christian-Albrechts-University of Kiel, Germany
- 2000-2003: Lecturer in Molecular Nutrition, Hugh Sinclair Human Nutrition Group, University of Reading, England
- 1998-2000: Research Associate, Department of Molecular and Cell Biology, University of California at Berkeley, USA, funded by the German Research Society, DFG
- 1998: University Lecturer Degree (so-called "Habilitation") for Nutrition Physiology, University of Giessen, Germany
- 1993: Doctorate degree (Dr. oec. troph.) in Nutrition, University of Giessen, Germany
- 1990: Diploma (equivalent to MSc) in Nutritional Sciences (Dipl. oec. troph.), University of Giessen, Germany with internships at the Ege University, Izmir, Turkey and at the University of Surrey, Guildford, England
-

Declined appointment offers

- 2011: University of Halle-Wittenberg (Germany) Full Professorship in Nutrition Physiology
- 2007: University of Giessen (Germany) Full Professorship in Animal Nutrition
- 2003: University of Tucson (Arizona, USA) Associate Professorship in Nutritional Biochemistry

First and Associate Editorships

- First Editor: British Journal of Nutrition (2008-2011)
- Associate Editor: Current Topics in Nutraceutical Research (2003-2011)

Present and Past Editorial Board Memberships

- Annals of Nutrition and Metabolism Biofactors Cancer Genomics and Proteomics
- Genes and Nutrition Pharmacological Research

International Prizes/Awards/Memberships

- 2012: Member of the National Academy of Sciences (Leopoldina)
- 2003: Henneberg-Lehmann young academics award
- 1994: H.W. Schaumann Award